ALLEGED FRAUD IN GLENDALE NEWS CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT

Our City Comment & discussion

by
THOMAS D.
WATSON

ON SATURDAY, May 5, the Glendale Evening News carried in its columns a copy of a complaint filed by it against the Glendale Daily Press.

Many statements were made in this complaint that have no basis in truth. This is true of a great many complaints based on fancied grievances. In another column of our paper we have given a copy of our answer.

We regret that the News has seen fit to attack us, for we have always felt that Glendale was large enough to support two newspapers. We have also thought it for the best interests of a city to have more than one newspaper. Newspapers reflect public sentiment each from a different angle.

Now that we have become involved in a legal conflict, we shall have to defend ourselves even at the possible cost of serious revelations and consequences to our opponent.

THE BITTERNESS seems to have been kindled between the circulation claims of the two papers, each claiming to have the largest paid circulation. Before figures were submitted in sworn statements to the Post Office Department as required by the federal law the Glendale Daily Press asserted that its circulation was two thousand in excess of that of the News. This assertion was based on information held by us.

When the statements were printed each in its own paper the figures of our competitor as given to the government and sworn to as accurate instead of being less than those of the Press showed an excess.

Even in the face of this claim we said nothing although without doubt our business was damaged. We did, however, make an effort to obtain additional verifications of our claim of superiority.

RECENTLY OUR competitor printed an attack on one of our stockholders, with the obvious intention of injuring the Glendale Daily Press, thus incidentally damaging all of the other stockholders. In the story the name of the Glendale Daily Press was inserted entirely apart and irrelevant to the context of the story. This more than twenty times, although the Glendale Daily Press was not in any way connected with or concerned in the matter. This action afforded many grounds for reprisal, but we remained silent, recognizing that the intent was plainly indicated in the story.

WHILE WE again reiterate that we did not seek legal conflict, we will naturally submit all of our proofs. The public will thus be thoroughly informed from an unbiased source just which newspaper is entitled to claim leadership in Glendale.

We have never made any secret of our circulation. In fact we have invited and continue to invite everyone, our competitor included, to investigate our statements.

At the present time the American Bureau of Circulation, the national standardizing bureau of the national advertisers and publishers of America, is auditing our circulation books, analyzing our circulation and tracing each copy to its final distribution. A statement of the findings will be furnished by it to all advertisers and to the reading public.

EAGLE ROCK, May 10.—The date for the election of the twelve directors for the reorganized chamber of commerce has been set. On Friday, May 11, all primary ballots will be mailed. These will bear the names of all chamber of commerce members. The primary election polls will close at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday evening, May 16. The final ballot election polls will close at 7:30 on Tuesday evening, May 22. The directors elected through this final vote will carry through until the general election of 1924.

THE WEATHER
Southern California: Fair to night and Friday; light westerly winds.

ALLEGES FRAUD IN PURPOSE OF A. T. COWAN'S AFFIDAVIT

IX. —
That defendants are informed and believe, and upon such information and belief, allege that the plaintiff executed and filed the said affidavit with the intention and for the purpose of deceiving prospective advertisers and fraudulently inducing advertisers to place advertising matter with the plaintiff instead of with the paper published by the Glendale Printing & Publishing Company, and defendants are informed and believe, and upon such information and belief, allege that the plaintiff used the said affidavit for such purpose.

CAL TYLITE FACTORY IS UNDER WAY

$100,000 Tile Manufacturing Company Plant Is Rushed

KENT BRINGS FIRM
Work to Be Completed
Within Thirty Days on Eight Acres

The California Tylite company, with main offices on Hollywood boulevard, has already started construction work on a $100,000 manufacturing plant in Glendale, this being located on eight acres of land, west of the Southern Pacific tracks in region west of the west end of Vine street. Work on this factory will be completed and a force of 100 employees will be on the job within 30 days, according to the report given out by the management this morning.

The first unit of this factory will have a capacity, when in operation, of 20,000 pieces of tile a day. This plant will be similar to the one operated by this concern in Toledo, Ohio. The eight acres was leased to this firm by the Roy L. Kent company, Roy Kent and A. L. Baird being the lessors. The lease taken on this land is for 98 years, the value being about $250,000.

It is the plan of this company to add to the first unit just as rapidly as possible. Within six months it is expected that the original output will have been doubled, which will mean that at that time 200 men will be employed.

The product turned out by the concern is believed to be one of the finest things of its kind for building purposes. It is a form of hollow tile on which patina have been secured. The face of this tile is finished in various ways so as to give the builder a variety of finishes to choose from. These tiles may be used for both homes and business structures.

This company is planning to begin at once the construction of 25 homes on its property, these to be occupied by its employees.

The Southern Pacific company will lay a spur track onto this property within a few days.

The officers of this company are as follows:
President—Frank H. Boettlacher, director of the C. Ganahl Lumber company, and president of the Central National Concentrator company.

Vice-President and General Manager—Charles H. Davis, formerly president and general manager of the American Concrete Industries Corporation.

Treasurer—W. W. Charles, president of the Securities Loan and Discount company, Bank of Italy building, Los Angeles.

Secretary—G. C. Hieble, realtor, Hollingsworth Bldg., Los Angeles. Attorney—L. A. Lewis, of the Citizens' National Bank Bldg., Los Angeles, and president of the Norwalk Commercial and Savings Bank, Norwalk, Calif.

MEMORIAL DAY
FORCES TO MEET

There will be a meeting of all the representatives from all interested civic, fraternal or patriotic organizations at the Wilson Avenue school tonight at 7:30 o'clock to work out plans for the Memorial day program. Comrade C. R. Norton is general chairman and Richardson D. White is secretary. It is stated that the "Wiks" have been given the committee assurance that it will be on hand for the Memorial day parade at 2 o'clock.

'MRS. WIGGS' CAST FORMED BY CITY PLAYERS

First Reading Is Held at the Home of Mrs. Nanno Woods

The Glendale Community Players had their first reading of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" on Monday evening at the residence of the director, Nanno Woods. With a few exceptions all the parts in this world-famous play were allotted to the actors present by Mrs. Fannie Stockbridge, who has resided in Glendale for many years. Mrs. Stockbridge played the part of Miss Hazy under Morosco's direction and has graciously offered to play the same part for our city players. The part of "Mrs. Wiggs" was played under Morosco by Mrs. Georgia Wallace who also has volunteered to again appear in the same character. The play will be directed by Nanno Woods under the direct supervision of Mrs. Stockbridge. Parts cast so far by Mrs. Stockbridge are as follows: "Mrs. Wiggs," Mrs. Georgia Wallace, understudy, Mrs. Woods; "Miss Hazy," Mrs. Fannie Stockbridge, understudy, Evelyn West; "Mrs. Schultz," Mrs. Edith Holway, understudy, Mrs. W. E. Woodbury; "Mrs. Elchorn," Mrs. L. T. Bradley, understudy, Mrs. Mary Beauchamp; "Mr. Bob," Ed Schockley; "Chris Hazy," Dugald Blue; "Lovey Mary," Dorothy Woods, understudy, Jean Corbett; "Billy Wicks," Cyril Holway; "Mr. Stubbs," R. W. Stinson; "Mr. Schultz," Maurice Widdows; "Asia," Almendra Bullock; "Europa," Lois Whiteman; "Australia," Nell Few; "Miss Lucy," Mildred McCoubrey. Other important male parts will be cast next Monday evening at the home of the director, 122 West Milford street. It is planned to have an understudy for every part. The Community Players' organization could use one or two men capable of playing mature "character" parts. Phone director, Glendale 394.

HARROWER TEAM BEATS YANNIGANS

The Yannigans, a baseball team organized among the men building the new Glendale sanitarium, played their first game Wednesday. They were defeated by the Harrower Laboratory team in a five-inning game played after 5 o'clock at the corner of San Fernando road and Park avenue. Score was 2 to 1, the winning score being made in the last half of the fifth.

W. D. Whalin, the contractor building the new sanitarium, acted as umpire. Several hundred fans were in attendance. Another game between the same teams is in prospect.

HIGH GIRLS LOSE TO CITRUS TEAM

The girls' tennis team of Glendale high went to Citrus high Wednesday afternoon and distinguished itself by some very good playing though the tournament was lost by a very small margin, the teams of the two schools being closely matched for skill.

In the first singles, Mary Barbara Taylor of Glendale opposed Mary Riser of Citrus and won in a very good, even match.

In second singles, Alexandria Bagley of Glendale played Louise Keiser and lost by a small margin.

The first doubles were played by Mary Barbara Taylor and Alexandria Bagley who had never played together as a disadvantage. They lost by a few points and the result showed their single playing is better than their team work.

Second doubles were played by Orrell Hester and Doris Moyses who won.

These scores made the tournament a tie and another singles was played to determine the victor. Citrus winning by a very small margin.

F. W. KELLOGG AND T. D. WATSON SECURED INFORMATION FOR USE OF POSTAL AUTHORITIES

Answer to Injunction Suit of A. T. Cowan Alleges Gross Fraud Practiced Upon the Merchants and Advertisers of Glendale and Elsewhere Through Sworn Statement Furnished to the Government; the Press Performs Public Service in Investigation of News Affidavit

In an uncompromising statement, the Glendale Printing and Publishing Company, F. W. Kellogg and T. D. Watson, have filed answer to the injunction and damage suit of A. T. Cowan, publisher of the Glendale Evening News.

In this answer it is alleged that defendants had reason to believe that the affidavit of paid circulation for six months prior to April 1, 1923, filed with the postal authorities by Cowan and published in the Glendale Evening News on April 11, was false and gross misrepresentation of fact, and that in fact the News' paid circulation did not exceed 3300 copies; whereas Cowan made affidavit to an average paid subscription list of 5890 for six months prior to April 1, 1923; and to place evidence of this fact before postal authorities secured certain information and employed certain parties to secure such information.

The malicious, insidious propaganda of the Glendale News and its proprietor, asserting that the Glendale Daily Press is dominated by F. W. Kellogg and the Los Angeles Express is met squarely and denied by Mr. Kellogg and T. D. Watson, the title defendants, directors of the Glendale Daily Press, of whom five are involved in the injunction proceedings instituted last Saturday by Mr. Cowan.

Fear that the true facts of the circulation of the Glendale News come to light, be revealed to the federal authorities and to the advertisers of Glendale, who may have believed the reiterated claim to leadership in Glendale, may be shown as the motive back of the injunction proceedings of the Glendale News.

That the Glendale Daily Press, by enrolling Miss Jennie Swenson as an employee of the Glendale News, for the purpose of obtaining accurate information of the circulation of the Glendale News is not denied. Further, it is asserted that she did secure the information.

It is denied, however, that Miss Swenson was instructed to remove any of the records of the Glendale News, for which the Glendale Daily Press had and has now no use.

In securing the accurate information of the circulation of the Glendale News, the Glendale Daily Press performed a service of incalculable value to the national advertisers who were unable to reach those figures for themselves, and to the local merchants of Glendale, who were possibly unable to believe that the older newspaper, through its persistence in its policy which had caused the Glendale Daily Press to come into being, had been swept practically out of the Glendale field in three years by the Press with its service to all the people all the time, its wide-open columns recording the progress of Glendale from every angle.

Having completed its service, the Glendale Printing & Publishing company, in its answer asks no compensation from Mr. Cowan or the Glendale News, through the courts.

It heard the one clear call to service to advertisers and community, above the personal damage to its business through the misstatements of Mr. Cowan and his newspaper.

It alleges it has been maligned, deprecated and made the subject of unfair competition, as set forth in its answer.

A synopsis of the reply to the suit filed by A. T. Cowan, in his efforts to conceal the manner by which he had secured the affidavit, perjury to the postal authorities—in which he has deceived the merchants of Glendale, follows:

The answer denies emphatically that by reason of stock ownership in the Glendale Printing and Publishing Company, F. W. Kellogg dominates or controls any of the directors of the Glendale Daily Press.

It denies possession of any knowledge that the Glendale Evening News has ever been a profitable newspaper "having a wide patronage" or any patronage, or that it had "built up a large, or any circulation," or that its subscription list has "contributed to the permanent or any profit to the News; denies knowledge that the News had grown from a weekly to a large and profitable daily newspaper.

Denies possession of any knowledge that it yielded "a subscription and the sale of advertising therein."

It is denied that the Glendale Daily Press and the Express for the purpose of making a wrong or any use of the same, or with any malicious intent, employed Jennie Swenson to secure a News employee to steal the subscription list of the News, in order to deprive it of its circulation list.

It declares Miss Swenson was never directed to remove any records from the News office and asserts the alleged "removal or delivery to the said defendants of the said subscription list and said subscription records was in fraud of plaintiff's rights."

It declares it was never the intention to solicit subscribers from any such list or that there were thousands of names upon it.

It asserts the alleged loss of the circulation list does not prevent the News from seeking advertising patronage, or interfere with its second-class mailing privileges.

The answer denies the possession of the circulation lists of the News or any records of that office, or that the defendants will mutilate, or will the defendants seek to discredit and minimize the volume of the subscribers of the News.

A brief history of the service of the Glendale Daily Press in exposing the fraud on the public perpetrated by A. T. Cowan, is given in defense.

On April 1, 1923, the Glendale Daily Press had been profitable, it is stated. A large portion of its income was derived from advertising, paid on the basis of daily paid circulation. Advertisers relied on affidavits presented by publishers to the U. S. Post Office Department, semi-annually.

On April 1, 1923, the average paid circulation of the Glendale Daily Press for the preceding six months was approximately 5,495.

"Defendants are informed and believe . . . and allege . . . the average daily paid circulation of the newspaper published by the plaintiff was approximately 3,300 copies daily."

"The defendants are informed and believe, and upon such information and belief, allege that on or about the first day of April, 1923, the plaintiff (Cowan) made, executed and filed with the Post Office Department of the United States Government an affidavit, under and by virtue of the terms of which the plaintiff averred that the average paid daily circulation of the said Glendale Evening News for the preceding six months was five thousand, eight hundred and ninety copies per day."

The answer alleges this affidavit was executed for the purpose of:

"Deceiving prospective advertisers and fraudulently inducing advertisers to place advertising matter with the plaintiff instead of with the paper published by the Glendale Printing and Publishing Company, and defendants are informed and believe, and upon such information and belief, allege that the plaintiff used the affidavit for such purposes."

"That the action and conduct of the plaintiff . . . subjected the defendants to grossly unfair and wrongful and fraudulent competition."

The action in defense which the defendants then took is related clearly:

'PRESS DAY' AT WOMEN'S CLUB TODAY

Brilliant Women Journalists Are Listed on Program

EAGLE ROCK, May 10.—The Twentieth Century Club set today as "Press Day." Mrs. Kyle D. Palmer acted as chairman, and the program scheduled should have insured the necessity of hanging out a "standing room only" sign.

Two well known brilliant and modern journalists of Southern California were secured as speakers. These women have both had years of real experience have given them a fund of practical knowledge to base their talks on. As pointed out by those arranging the program, news-gatherers and writers run into some of the most interesting people and surroundings in their wide range of duties, so the addresses for today were rated as special drawing cards.

At one o'clock Estelle Lawton Lindsey was slated to speak at the luncheon. Estelle Lindsey is a great favorite of the public through her newspaper and magazine articles. She chose as her topic, "The Community and the Newspaper."

Miss Belle McCord Roberts, Chautauqua speaker and owner of the Long Beach Daily Telegram, made the afternoon address. Miss Roberts is a versatile and talented woman, having taken an effective part in civic affairs at Long Beach for some years.

Preceding the afternoon address at 2:30 a musical program was arranged by Miss Edna Cummins. The Bernard Snyder orchestra favored with a number of splendid selections. The three musicians in this group of popular players are Bernard Snyder, saxophone; Edna Cummins, piano; and Ruth Paddock, violin.

MUSIC MERCHANTS WILL CONVEY IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, May 10.—The National Association of Music Merchants, the Music Industries Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Music Roll Manufacturers, National Piano Manufacturers' association, Music Merchants' association, National Piano Travelers' association, Bureau for the Advancement of Music, National Piano Tuners' association, Musical Supply Association of America, National Band Instrument Manufacturers' association and the National Association of Talking Machine Jobbers will be among the organizations represented.

CO-OPERATION TO BE KEYNOTE OF OPERATION

That it has given the active cooperation of the Glendale Realty board was the request made by the Glendale Builders' Exchange in a communication read before the Realty board Wednesday noon. The Realty board members stated that they would be glad to do anything they could toward assisting the builders' exchange, provided that organization in return would cooperate with the board, in the way of listing with the board members the property that the owners of the exchange construct and have for sale.

The letter addressed to the board by the exchange on this question was as follows:

"Greetings from the Builders' Exchange of Glendale.

"The members of the Builders' Exchange of Glendale are striving by all fair means to eliminate selfish desires and activities and with efficiency and integrity make possible the aims and ambitions for which the exchange stands.

"Our members hope to eliminate the activities of the fly-by-night contractor, as well as the resultant mechanics lien evil so prevalent today.

With this end in view, we will appreciate your active cooperation. One of the purposes of the exchange is to secure the plans and specifications of contemplated building operations, so that its membership can submit bids thereon. In this the members of your board can assist us very materially. If they will send any plans they have—large or small—the exchange will do the rest, and this without cost to anyone.

"The members of the exchange being the better class of men engaged in the industry, their work can be relied upon and their price will be right."

"ROMANCE LAND" AT THE GLENDALE WITH TOM MIX

The infatigable Tom Mix comes to town again tonight in a new Fox production, "Romance Land," at the Glendale theatre to enthral the fair maid who and fanciful romance is unusually well done. The forecast of the producer stating that Tom Mix had achieved new heights of screen acting, was more than fulfilled. The film is commendable for many reasons. It shows careful direction, a well written story and good photography. In addition to smooth and artistic acting. Another favorable point is the lively element of comedy that sparkles in twinkling fashion all through the picture.

Tom Mix carries out with consummate artistry his part as the youth who becomes so saturated with the adventures of Scott's "Ivanhoe," that he starts out to emulate that hero. A fine balance is preserved by the girl portraying the fair maid who and fanciful romance is unusually well done. CONSUMERS' TEST BECOMES KEEN IN LAST WEEK'S RACE

Interest in the Consumers' Contest is growing every day, and during the next four weeks the race promises to be one of real interest. "Dark horses" are making surprising inroads on the old contestants, and who the winners will be in the end is one of the big questions that will be hard to solve.

The labels have been coming in so thick that it has been almost impossible for the contest editor to keep up with the count, and if your vote does not appear today it will be published in tomorrow's issue in full.

"MIGHTY LAK A ROSE" IS STORY OF HIGH PLACES

A gang of successful, desperate crooks tried to steal the heart of a young and innocent girl violinist, in a story that is being played by the Glendale theatre. C. OF C. COMPLETES 1ST MEMBERSHIP QUOTA OF 300

EAGLE ROCK, May 10.—With a membership list of 309 "go-getters" the re-organized Chamber of Commerce has broken the tape over the goal which they set at the opening of the membership drive. The service fund has been raised to $2003, and will not be closed until as much of the quota of $2000 as it is possible to obtain has been subscribed.

The membership campaign will not be closed. The teams will continue their activity along with the "neighborhood campaign" of each of the members until at least 350 or more members have been secured.

Over a hundred of the members were present at the meeting of the reorganized association in the city hall Tuesday night. Mr. Root addressed the meeting after the reports of the various captains had been presented, and he called attention to the splendid success of the campaign, and asked the entire membership to keep the ball rolling during the next two weeks in order that the 350 members may be secured.

Secretary Dr. Crawford read the by-laws, article by article, and after these were either accepted or amended, and a number of amendments, a resolution was passed that they be incorporated as the by-laws of the Eagle Rock chamber of commerce.

Mr. H. B. Pier, assisting in the organization work here, was called upon by President Root to outline the work for the coming two weeks. He pointed out the importance of obtaining the right man for the new secretariatship to be created here, and also the equally important matter of committee and individual support for the man filling that position, financial support as well as moral support.

Mr. Pier also impressed upon those present the importance of the regular forum meetings of the entire membership, and the value of suggestions from the members to the managing secretary, the various committees, and the board of directors in the chamber of commerce. "Every man must share a part of the burdens to keep up the proper interest in the organization," Mr. Pier said.

The election of directors will be held, the books will be opened, and the office put in order in accordance with the plans of a standard chamber of commerce.

A PAIR OF SIXES HAS FIRST NIGHT

not one failed to act acceptably, the other members of the cast being: Ralph Van Hoesebeke as Toney Tole, traveling salesman; Charlotte Winsel as Miss Florence Cole, sweetheart of Mr. Johns; George Juett as Mr. Applegate, a customer; Harry Bennett as Thomas J. Vanderholt, attorney for the firm; and Helen Sherwood as Coddies.

Between the three acts and preceding the rising of the curtain a fine musical program was given by the school orchestra under the direction of Mrs. Dora Gibson, which included: Overture, "The Jolly Robbers" (Suppe); "La Czarine" (Ganne); "Minuet in B Minor" (Schubert), and the exit march, "American Legion" (Lake).

The impressionistic settings were designed and created by Mr. Brewster, assisted by James Gonzales. The stairway was made by Mr. Gorman, head of the woodworking department; the tapestry and screen was designed by Nancy Snow and enlarged by costume design class under direction of Miss Crandall.

Assisting members of the student body staff were:

Stage manager, James Gonzales; head electrician, Willard Roberts; assistant electrician, Horace Hoffer; property man, Robert Roach; crew, Floyd Kinnaird, Fredrick Stoff, David Griffiths; general manager, Geo. Loren Patrick; publicity, Dorothy Watson; assistant publicity, Grace Yarbrough; head ushers, Margaret Morgan and Olive Swensen.

BEAUTIES OF THIS CITY SHOULD BE TOLD

"Nowhere in Southern California is the atmosphere so clear as it is in Glendale," said Sam Cotch, first vice president of the Advertising Club of Greater Santa Monica, and chairman of the publicity committee, in an address to the Glendale Realty board, Wednesday noon.

"And for this reason I believe the view of the mountains as obtained from this city is clearer and more wonderful than anywhere in this section of the state."

"This fact is going to be realized more and more by the people who are destined to come to Southern California, and I believe there is going to be a tremendous rush to this section of the country during weeks and months that are to come. If tourists have come to this section by the hundreds in the past, they are destined to come by thousands in the future."

"Today is the day of competition. Glendale must compete against the surrounding cities, and the only way she can hope to be successful is for her to tell her advantages and beauties to the world. Get out a big comprehensive story of your city and then tell it to the world. You've got to 'put over' your city."

"We had our troubles in getting the advertising club of Santa Monica started. We tried to do the work through the various organizations, but along those lines we failed. A bunch of us fellows believed we had a wonderful city and that all we had to do to bring it into its own was to tell the world about it. We called a meeting and 145 people were present. We raised $7,500 around that table. Six months later we had another meeting, and with 450 people present we raised $17,000—and so it goes."

"Everybody looks alike to us—white, black, democrat, republican, catholic, protestant, rich or poor—anybody who believes in our city and has a little money to back up that belief is permitted to join."

"We started out to make Santa Monica a city of 100,000 population in 1930. Since the campaign has been going along so well most of us have increased that figure to 1,000,000. You fellows in Glendale can do the same thing. You can place your city on the map. Make your city a place that will appeal to the home lover, and you will win out."

An advertising club of this character cannot be run in connection with the chamber of commerce or any other organization. It will help them, but will not be a part of them. All of the inquiries concerning Glendale would come to the club and the club would be handed out to the various branches, industrial and commercial stuff to the chamber of commerce, the inquiries concerning club life to those who are interested along those lines, religious communications, or the like. Ministerial association, or the like. We started out by jettling all communications coming as a result of our advertising campaign be taken care of by the chamber of commerce. This did not prove satisfactory. Now we receive them ourselves and hand them out to those to whom they should go so that intelligent replies may be sent."

Charles B. Gurrie, reporting for the jinx committee, stated that his things are under way for this event. There will be vaudeville stunts and a feed that will "knock 'em dead." It is hoped to get Governor Richardson, Mayor Cryer and many other notables here.

It was decided to hold this jinx from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 12 at night, or until the festivities end, the place to be chosen later.

Dr. Russell reported success in securing recognition from the Los Angeles papers and stated that all of them were willing to co-operate with the board along this line.

The board officially adopted the listing blanks provided by the state real estate board.

Attention of the members was called to the Southern California Realtors' convention to be held at Riverside next Saturday, and several members signified their intention attending this event.

SACRED WORDS SET TO JAZZ CONVERT HEATHEN

CHICAGO, May 10.—Ragtime and "jazz" may be working to the detriment of Young America but their syncopated strains are winning converts to Christian ideals in Timbuctoo, Tibet and Tahiti, according to Paul Rader, evangelist and president of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, the international conference of which here May 15-23 will bring missionaries from all parts of the world.

"African jazz music is used by our more than 100 missionaries to attract the attention of and assemble the most savage people in our fields of evangelistic services," Mr. Rader said. "Our missionaries carry no arms, but through musical instruments and their voices raised in song and prayer ply their work of converting the heathen. Sacred words are set to modern jazz songs, noble thoughts to popular tunes, and then sung with a spirit that attracts the black, yellow and brown faces."

"All sorts of hymns are sung, but we find that the rhythm of ragtime tunes delights the simple mind of the savage, appeals to his tom-tom trained mind, and the first thing the missionary knows the wild man is singing Christian words, learning white religious theology and presently is converted."

FEDERATED P. T. A. HEARS FROM R. D. WHITE

Superintendent of Schools Reviews Work Before the Legislature

The chief speaker at the meeting of the Federation of Parent-Teacher associations held Wednesday afternoon in the cafeteria of the high school, was Superintendent Richardson D. White who reviewed legislative action relating to the public schools of the state, and bills now pending before the legislature.

The report of the nominating committee recommending officers for the coming year was presented, accepted, and the officers elected as follows:

President, Mrs. E. B. Moore; vice president, Mrs. E. S. McKee; secretary, Mrs. Amy Johnson; treasurer, Mrs. Florence Winters; corresponding secretary, Mrs. William Kulp; historian, Mrs. B. F. Reichard; auditor, Mrs. G. L. Berryman.

An amendment of the by-laws to provide a federation program chairman who would assist chairmen of individual associations in arranging programs and securing speakers, was adopted unanimously.

On motion of Mrs. Rosenberg, the federation voted to make its next meeting on the second Wednesday in June, a picnic, the place to be selected by the chairman of courtesy and the president. There was some discussion of arrangements which will be perfected and announced later.

Mrs. A. H. Brown, parliamentarian, reported a suggestion made to her that a class in parliamentary law which would be financed by the federation, be provided for the free training of members disposed to avail themselves of the privilege, that timber for official positions might be developed. The possibility that the high school authorities would be willing to provide such a class in its night school was also mentioned and Mrs. Brown was requested to investigate the matter with a view to the establishing of such a class next fall.

In his informal talk Mr. White reported that most of the amendments to Governor Richardson's budget for the schools of the state, though they had received the endorsement of the majority of members of the legislature, had failed to pass because it was not a two-thirds majority. As a result he looked for the serious crippling of the teachers' college, the humanitarian state schools like the one at Whittier, and the supplies of grammar school text books.

He explained a bill now before the legislature to provide intelligent and efficient religious instruction for children in the public schools by providing in the curriculum for one hour per week of such instruction for pupils whose parents desired them to have it, and instructors to be supplied and paid by the churches of the city. He expressed his own favorable attitude toward the bill based on the fact, as shown by statistics, that only about 20 per cent of the children in school are getting any kind of religious instruction. He said the bill is in practice in other states and is very favorably regarded by the ministers of Glendale.

Senior teams of Wilson and Glendale Avenue schools played, however, with a score of 26 to 7 in favor of Wilson.

A series of inter-school games is to be played in the grammar school athletic league, the boys to play Monday afternoons, the girls Wednesday afternoons.

AUCTION BRIDGE CLUB IS ENTERTAINED HERE

LUCAS-BENNETT NUPTIALS HELD

A pretty home wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Lucas, 640 Milford street, Wednesday noon, when their daughter, Miss Naomi Lucas and Howard Bennett were united in marriage, Rev. Clifford Cole officiating.

Witnesses were limited to the immediate families of the contracting parties and a few intimate friends, but at the conclusion of the ceremony when Mr. and Mrs. Bennett entered the auto which was to carry them to San Francisco where their honeymoon will be spent, they discovered the members of the S. O. S. Sunday School class to which the bride belongs, on hand to congratulate them and escort them on their journey as far as Burbank with such music as could be produced by bells, horns and clattering tin cans. They will be gone about two weeks and on their return will make their home in Glendale. Both have a large circle of friends here.

Harold Trefry to Give Recital May 11

Harold Trefry, baritone, pupil of Mrs. Virginia Freeman, is to present a recital program Friday night, May 11, in the auditorium of the First Baptist Church at the corner of Wilson Avenue and Louise streets, beginning at 8:15 o'clock. Mr. Trefry will be assisted by Eva Kurtz Ghrist, pianist, and Mrs. Roberta Young, accompanist. The program to be presented will include: "Sunset" (Dudley Buck), "If Thou Wert Blind" (Johnson), and "Erklung" (Schubert), by Mr. Trefry; "Aeolus" (Gernsheim), "Chant D'Amour" (Stojowski) by Eva Kurtz Ghrist, pianist; "Nobody Knows De Trouble I've Seen" (White), "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" (Guion), and "Travelin' to de Grave" (Reddick), by Mr. Trefry.

SANTA MONICA GIRLS GAME WILSON AVE. AND SANTA MONICA GIRLS' GAME OFF

The girls' baseball team of Wilson Avenue was booked to play Santa Monica Intermediate girls Wednesday afternoon at Santa Monica, but the game was called off in account to the heat and will not be played until some time next week.

For the same reason the game between teams of Wilson Avenue and Pasadena Military Academy, set for the same afternoon, was called off.

Senior teams of Wilson and Glendale Avenue schools played, however, with a score of 26 to 7 in favor of Wilson.

A series of inter-school games is to be played in the grammar school athletic league, the boys to play Monday afternoons, the girls Wednesday afternoons.

CARD PARTY AT CLUBHOUSE ON FRIDAY EVE

EAGLE ROCK, May 10.—The Women's club house will be the scene of a card party to raise funds for the disabled world war veterans, Friday evening. Score cards will be 25 cents and all who can attend are urged to be present and help swell the fund. A special effort is being made by many organizations at this time to raise money to pay for the erection of a building for the disabled boys, where they can feel welcome, and find entertainment. Victory Post in Los Angeles is the center of this activity.

Hostesses for the event Friday evening are Mrs. B. B. Marstolf and Mrs. Ethel Williams, assisted by Mrs. Harry Phinney, and Mrs. F. H. Beach.

MUTUAL BENEFIT READING CIRCLE HOLDS MEETING

At the regular meeting of the Mutual Benefit Reading Circle held at the library yesterday afternoon was made the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher Associations is the instigator of a movement to change the voting hours at school elections, which matter is now before the house in Sacramento. In the absence of the president the meeting was in charge of Mrs. W. W. Stock. A review on "Brains, a Family Affair" (Prof. Wiggan), was given by Mrs. Harris. Mrs. A. H. Brown announced the forming of a parliamentary law class to consist of five lessons, and asked all interested to join. The reading of the book, "Play and Education" (Lee), was continued by Mrs. Stofft.

Mrs. McLain told of a plea to the Rotary Club of Chicago by two Kentucky boys for community work through the south. Routine business occupied the remainder of the session.

Clothing Advance May Come From the Strike, Says Gelmor

The recent settlement of the strike of over 4000 workers in the woolen mills of Los Angeles means that the price of woolsens will be higher, according to A. Gelmor, Glendale tailor of 138 South Brand boulevard. The terms of settlement involved a 20 per cent raise in the wages of the workers, meaning a corresponding increase in the price of materials, it is claimed.

Despite this fact, Mr. Gelmor says he will continue with his comparison sale, which has been most successful, he reports. After May 14, there will be a general boosting of prices in all woolen materials, he announces, and says the Glendale people should have their measurements taken this week if they are to take advantage of the offers of the comparison sale of high class tailored suits.

JUNIOR AUXILIARY TO MEET SATURDAY

The Junior Auxiliary of the Glendale Music club will have its last meeting of the season Saturday night at the home of Miss Winifred Parker, 212 North Orange street, at 7:30 o'clock. Officers for the coming year will be installed and it is desirable that every member be present.

PURELY PERSONAL

Miss Elizabeth Mottern left this morning for Santa Barbara to attend the P. E. O. Convention, where she is to be the soloist at the session tonight.

At a meeting of a committee from the Song Leaders' Club with R. E. Tucker, local Community Service executive, held last night it was decided that a joint meeting of the presidents and secretaries from the Song Leaders' Club and the Recreation Leaders' Club would be held Friday night at 7:30 o'clock. The object of the meeting is to plan for a meeting of the two clubs which will probably be in the form of a picnic, to be held sometime next week.

Miss Madeline Love and Miss Esther Besant, who have been attending the University at Berkeley and have just completed their junior year's work, arrived in Glendale this morning for their summer vacation. Miss Love is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Love of 220 West Elk avenue and Miss Besant is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Besant of 202 West Palmer avenue.

The Extravagance of Cheap Plumbing

P LUMBING is the most important thing in your home. Give much thought to and exercise the utmost care in selecting both your plumber and your plumbing.

No one who buys inferior goods has a right to complain if they fail to give good service or permanent satisfaction.

Don't buy seconds or damaged goods. Buy direct and pay only the price of the plumbing with no added fee to any one. Remember one-half of the plumbing in your home is out of sight, hidden behind walls, under floors where it cannot be seen. Therefore, you must employ a plumber in whom you have confidence.

Select a member of the Sanitary Development League. It is composed of over 200 high class, successful plumbing concerns in Southern California, who are pledged to maintain the highest business standards. Dealing with one of them is your greatest safeguard of price, quality and workmanship.

ALLEGES FRAUD BY COWAN IN CIRCULATION AFFIDAVIT

1923, the defendants communicated to the postal authorities of the United States Government their belief that the plaintiff on, or about the first day of April, 1923, had filed with the postal department a false affidavit as to the average daily paid circulation of the newspaper . . . and that they were informed that if they would obtain authentic information to that effect, or evidence to that effect, undoubtedly an official investigation would be ordered."

The defendants, in the language of the answer, in order that such evidence might be presented to the postal authorities, and to get evidence "in order that the plaintiff might be exposed in his endeavor to fraudulently obtain advertising contracts, employed one Jennie Swensen to obtain employment from the plaintiff and to ascertain the average daily paid circulation of the newspaper . . . and report such information to the defendants."

"That the said Jennie Swensen did obtain information of such nature that the defendants now allege they are informed and believe and allege that the said affidavit of the plaintiff was false, and that the average daily paid circulation of the newspaper published by the plaintiff during the six months prior to April 1, 1923, did not exceed 3,300 copies per day."

In conclusion the answer sets forth:

"The defendants were not actuated by any malice, or any desire to cause the plaintiff any unnecessary annoyance or trouble, but with the desire to protect themselves and the paper published by them from unfair, and fraudulent, and wrongful competition of the plaintiff, and to protect prospective advertisers from being imposed upon by the wrongful, deceitful and fraudulent misrepresentations of the plaintiff as to the volume of the average daily paid circulation of the newspaper published by him."

intent, or with the malicious intent, or with any intent, to injure the plaintiff in his business as publisher of said Glendale Evening News, and maliciously, or maliciously, or at all, to minimize and discredit, or minimize or discredit before the public the value of said Glendale Evening News as an advertising medium, or otherwise, or at all, the defendants, or any, or either of them employed one Jennie Swensen to enter the ostensible service of plaintiff as a pretended solicitor and correspondent, for the express, or any, purpose of surreptitiously and wrongfully, or surreptitiously or wrongfully, or at all, purloining and obtaining, or purloining or obtaining from plaintiff for said defendant, or any, or either of them, the subscription list of the subscribers to the said Glendale Evening News, or for the purpose, or for the purpose of wrongfully and surreptitiously, or wrongfully or surreptitiously, or at all, purloining and obtaining, or purloining or obtaining for said defendants, or any, or either of them, and permanently, or at all, wrongfully and maliciously, or wrongfully or maliciously, or at all, depriving said plaintiff of the same, the circulation records of the Glendale Evening News for the month of April, 1923, or any other records whatsoever.

Deny that on April 22, 1923, or at any other time, said Jennie Swensen, pursuant to the purpose and intention of the defendants, or the purpose or intention of the defendants, or any or either of them, to surreptitiously and wrongfully, or surreptitiously or wrongfully, or at all, obtain the alleged subscription list and circulation records, or subscription list or circulation records of said Glendale Evening News, and acting, or acting at the instigation and direction, or instigation or direction of the said defendants, or any or either of them, surreptitiously and wrongfully, or surreptitiously or wrongfully, or at all, removed from the premises of the plaintiff at 139 S. Brand Boulevard, City of Glendale, or elsewhere, the alleged subscription list of the said Glendale Evening News, or any other papers or documents, and the said, or the said circulation records of the said Glendale Evening News for the month of April, 1923, or any other records, and delivered, or delivered the same to the said defendants, or any or either of them.

Defendants have no information or belief sufficient to enable them to answer the allegations of Paragraph XIV of plaintiff's complaint, and upon that ground deny that the said alleged removal and delivery, or removal or delivery to the said defendants of the said subscription list and said circulation records was in fraud of plaintiff's rights and entirely, or entirely without the authority or consent of any one acting for him or on his behalf.

Defendants have no information or belief sufficient to enable them to answer the allegations of Paragraph XV of plaintiff's complaint, and upon that ground deny that it was no part whatsoever of the duties of said Jennie Swenson under the alleged pretended service of the plaintiff, to have access to, or anything whatsoever to do with the said alleged circulation records of the Glendale Evening News.

Defendants have no information or belief sufficient to enable them to answer the allegations of Paragraph XVI of plaintiff's complaint, and upon that ground deny that the alleged subscription list alleged to have been surreptitiously removed and delivered by the said Jennie Swenson to the said defendants was the general or subscription list of the subscribers to said Glendale Evening News, and that, or that, said list represented several years of continuous effort, or any years of continuous effort, on the part of plaintiff and his employees, or on the part of the plaintiff or his employees connected with the said Glendale Evening News, and that, or that, it was no part of the duties of said Jennie Swenson in her alleged pretended service of the plaintiff to have access to said general subscription list, and that, or that, said list at said time and place, or said time or place, consisted of several, or any, thousand names.

Said defendants deny that the said defendants, or any or either of them, intend, or intend, or unless, restrained and enjoined, or restrained or enjoined by this Honorable Court, will solicit on behalf of said Glendale Daily Press and Los Angeles Evening Express, or either of said papers, subscribers, or any subscriptions from the said list of subscribers, and intend to, or intend to, or will, endeavor to obtain the business and patronage, or business or patronage in respect to said list of subscribers theretofore enjoyed by said plaintiff.

Deny that the said plaintiff has no duplicate of said circulation record or any other record or account of the matters and things, or matters or things contained therein, and deny that the plaintiff has been damaged by reason of the matters set forth in plaintiff's complaint, or any other matter, in the sum of Ten Thousand Dollars ($10,000.00), or any other sum whatsoever.

Said defendants deny that the loss and damage to the plaintiff of said circulation records and the deprivation thereof, or the loss or damage to the plaintiff of said circulation records, or any of them, or the deprivation thereof, is and was, or is or was, irreparable in the respects set forth in Paragraph XIX of plaintiff's complaint, or in any respect whatsoever.

Said defendants deny that without the records referred to in the plaintiff's complaint, plaintiff cannot compute for himself, and is without, or is without definite knowledge or information as to the amount of average daily circulation of said Glendale Evening News for the month of April, 1923, and without, or without, the information necessary to inform prospective advertisers on the subject.

Said defendants deny that by reason of the alleged loss of said circulation records, plaintiff is deprived from seeking and obtaining, or seeking or obtaining, the patronage of advertising agencies and is now, or is now, and will continue to be, or will continue to be, by reason thereof, or otherwise, or at all, greatly, or at all, handicapped in obtaining foreign or any advertising.

Deny that it is impossible for plaintiff to file an accurate sworn statement of the average daily circulation of said newspaper as alleged in subdivision (c) of Paragraph XIX of the plaintiff's complaint, and that, or that, by reason thereof, said plaintiff is in danger of losing his said alleged second-class mailing privileges in respect to the said Glendale Evening News.

Defendants have no information or belief sufficient to enable them to answer the allegations of Paragraph XX of plaintiff's complaint, and upon that ground deny that the subscription list of the said Glendale Evening News referred to in plaintiff's complaint and the said circulation records thereof, or the said circulation records thereof, are now in the possession of said defendants, and deny that the said defendants, or any or either of them, unless restrained and enjoined, or restrained or enjoined by order of this Court, will attempt to and will, or will attempt to and will, mutilate and destroy, or mutilate or destroy, said circulation records, or any circulation, or any records, for the purpose of preventing plaintiff from recovering the possession thereof, or otherwise, or at all, or that the said defendants, or any or either of them, will, if not restrained by order of this Court, alter and falsify, or alter or falsify, the same for the purpose of attempting to discredit and minimize, or for the purpose of attempting to discredit and minimize before the public, the extent and volume, or the extent or volume, of the circulation of the said Glendale Evening News for the month of April, 1923, and particularly, or particularly, by said alterations and falsification, or said alterations or falsification, to discredit and minimize, or discredit or minimize, the value of said Glendale Evening News as an advertising medium, or for any other purpose.

Deny that plaintiff has no adequate remedy at law for the redress or prevention of the wrongs and grievances, or wrongs or grievances alleged in plaintiff's complaint, or that each and all, or each or all, or any, of said wrongs and grievances, or wrongs or grievances, do now, and will hereafter, or do now, or will hereafter, unless enjoined, cause plaintiff great and irreparable, or great or irreparable, injury and damage, or injury or damage, for which pecuniary compensation would afford no adequate relief.

FOR A SECOND, SEPARATE AND DISTINCT DEFENSE, SAID DEFENDANTS ALLEGED:

I. That at all times herein mentioned, the defendant, the Glendale Printing & Publishing Company, was engaged in the publishing of a newspaper in the City of Glendale, State of California, commonly known and designated as the Glendale Daily Press, and having a daily, except Sunday, circulation in the said city and surrounding community.

II. That at all times herein mentioned, the plaintiff was the owner and publisher of a newspaper published in the City of Glendale, State of California, commonly known and designated as the Glendale Evening News, and having a daily, except Sunday, circulation in the said city and state.

III. That on or about the 1st day of April, 1923, and for a long time prior thereto, the business of the said defendant, the Glendale Printing and Publishing Company, had been profitable and lucrative and was profitable and lucrative.

IV. That a large portion of the income of the newspapers owned and published by the said defendant and the plaintiff respectively is derived from advertising contracts, and that said advertising contracts are placed by advertisers solely upon the volume of daily paid circulation of such newspapers; that such advertisers depend altogether for evidence as to the daily volume of paid circulation upon affidavits presented by the publishers of the said daily newspapers respectively, as to their respective average daily paid circulation; and upon affidavits of the average daily paid circulation of such newspapers, made by their respective publishers and filed with the Post Office Department of the United States government semi-annually, pursuant to law.

V. That on or about the first day of April, 1923, the average daily paid circulation of the defendant, the Glendale Printing & Publishing Company, was approximately five thousand four hundred ninety-five (5,495) copies of its paper.

VI. Defendants are informed and believe, and upon such information and belief, allege that on or about the first day of April, 1923, the average daily paid circulation of the newspaper published by the plaintiff was approximately thirty-three hundred (3,300) copies per day.

VII. That defendants are informed and believe, and upon such information and belief, allege that on or about the first day of April, 1923, the plaintiff made, executed and filed with the Post Office Department of the United States government, an affidavit, under and by virtue of the terms of which the plaintiff averred that the average daily paid circulation of the said Glendale Evening News for the preceding six (6) months was five thousand eight hundred ninety (5,890) copies per day.

VIII. That defendants are informed and believe, and upon such information and belief, allege that plaintiff made, executed and filed the said affidavit for the purpose of using the same to induce advertisers to place advertising matter with the plaintiff's paper in preference to the paper published by the defendant, the Glendale Printing & Publishing Company; and defendants are informed and believe, and upon such information and belief, allege that the said plaintiff did use the said affidavit for said purpose.

IX. That defendants are informed and believe, and upon such information and belief, allege that the plaintiff executed and filed the said affidavit with the intention and for the purpose of deceiving prospective advertisers and fraudulently inducing advertisers to place advertising matter with the plaintiff instead of with the paper published by the Glendale Printing & Publishing Company, and defendants are informed and believe, and upon such information and belief, allege that the plaintiff used the said affidavit for such purpose.

X. That the action and conduct of the plaintiff, as hereinbefore alleged, subjected the defendants to grossly unfair, and wrongful and fraudulent competition; that prior to the 22nd day of April, 1923, the defendants were fully advised of the execution and filing of the said affidavit by the said plaintiff, and were informed of the said matters herein alleged to be true and believed the said matters to be true.

XI. That prior to the 22nd day of April, 1923, the defendants communicated to the Postal authorities of the United States government their belief that the plaintiff, on or about the first day of April, 1923, had filed with the Postal Department a false affidavit as to the average daily paid circulation of the newspaper published by the plaintiff during the six months prior thereto, and that said Postal authorities informed these defendants that if they would obtain authentic information to that effect or evidence to that effect it would be accorded an official investigation.

XII. That the defendants, for the purpose of obtaining evidence of the falsity of said alleged affidavit, in order that said evidence might be presented to the said Postal authorities of the United States government, and for the purpose of obtaining such evidence in order that the plaintiff might be exposed in his endeavor to fraudulently obtain advertising contracts, employed one Jennie Swensen to obtain employment from plaintiff and to ascertain the average daily paid circulation of the newspaper published by the plaintiff and to report such information to the defendants.

XIII. That the defendants did not instruct nor authorize the said Jennie Swensen to remove any papers or data from the office or premises of the plaintiff, or to obtain or remove therefrom any documents, records, papers, or anything whatsoever.

XIV. That the said Jennie Swensen did obtain information of such nature, that the defendants now allege that they are informed and believe and upon such information and belief allege that the said affidavit of the said plaintiff was false, and that the average daily paid circulation of the newspaper published by the plaintiff during the period of six months prior to April 1, 1923, did not exceed thirty-three hundred (3,300) copies per day.

XV. That in employing said Jennie Swensen to obtain said information and in endeavoring to obtain said information, and in doing the things herein set forth, the defendants were not actuated by any malice whatsoever toward the plaintiff, or any desire to cause the plaintiff any unnecessary annoyance or trouble, but were actuated solely by the desire to protect themselves and the paper published by them from the unfair and fraudulent and wrongful competition of the plaintiff, and to protect prospective advertisers from being imposed upon by the wrongful, deceitful and fraudulent misrepresentations of the plaintiff as to the volume of the average daily paid circulation of the newspaper published by him.

WHEREFORE, the said defendants pray that the plaintiff take nothing by this action and that defendants have judgment for their costs herein incurred.

VERNON M. BRIDOLF,
Attorneys for Defendant.

SCHOLARSHIP FOR BEST COLLEGIATE DEBATER

An annual scholarship to be given to the best debater is a new development of the Pacific Coast Forensic Conference recently formed into a permanent organization at Berkeley, the membership consisting of Stanford, University of California and Southern California, Oregon, Washington, Idaho, British Columbia, and Whitman, Reed, Washington State and Oregon Agricultural colleges. Other institutions may be added later. All debates are to be decided by the audience.

Hokara Wonderful New Treatment—Quickly Clears Skin

Don't envy every good complexion you see, and wish for something that would give your skin the flush and beauty of youth, but go today and get a jar of Hokara—the cream that quickly assists and stimulates nature in restoring dry, faded cheeks to their normal, healthy charm and beauty.

There is no excuse for your skin to look tired and drawn. Keep the texture of the skin tissues smooth and fine, the pores so they will breathe new life into your skin and the blood vessels active to add color to the cheeks.

A gentle daily massage with Hokara stimulates the skin texture, clears the pores—and the dead black skin and dirt just roll away. Try this with a little Hokara—after you have washed your hands and face. It's a test worth trying.

People who have used Hokara for 30 years have found it to be healing, antiseptic and remarkable in quickly relieving any form of skin trouble—no matter how severe. Hokara is safe and quite different in that it contains no grease, lead or mercury. It tends to keep the skin soft, natural and refreshed. Get it of Jensen Drug Company, 133 N. Brand—Adv.

JAMES' RECORDS ARE IN MUCH DEMAND

600 Are Sold Before Shipment Reaches California

Harry James, well known Glendale monologist and proprietor of the James Phonograph Shop, was both surprised and pleased to receive his first royalty check this week for records which he made recently in Richmond, Indiana.

These records, as the sales show, have already proved themselves to fill a popular demand, for Mr. James learned that more than 600 had been sold before the shipment was made to California. A prominent Los Angeles music firm, which placed an order for 3000 of these records, also reports the sale of 300.

The first shipment of these records did not reach Los Angeles until April 7, and Mr. James did not expect to receive any royalty until the latter part of June, so that the word coming in regard to the early sale of his records was a total surprise.

The most popular ones according to present sales are: "An Englishman at a Ball Game," "Is Marriage a Failure?" and "An Englishman's Idea of American Wit." One particular feature of the records that adds to their selling qualities, is the fact that the tone is extremely clear, and the articulation so perfect that every word can be understood.

POCATELLO, Idaho, May 10.—A building boom, which includes a half million dollars worth of construction work here and over a million in this vicinity, is now under way. No labor shortage, however, is anticipated.

HARLEY G. PRESTON AS HE LOOKED ON THE WAR PATH

Harley G. Preston—he really doesn't need an introduction in Glendale, except to the new-comers, because he was formerly one of the Jewel City's most popular "sky pilots."

As a real estate man, Mr. Preston is also popular, his co-salesmen at the Finlay & Preston office, 131

Chautauqua Is to Give Sparking Comedy As Curtain Raiser

"Turn to the Right," a sparkling comedy drama with an appeal, a laugh, a lesson and a world of entertainment for everyone, makes a splendid opening bill for the Chautauqua, which begins in Glendale on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. The big tent, located at the corner of Orange and Harvard, is being put in place today and everything will be in readiness tomorrow for a week of pleasure and entertainment.

The Chautauqua brings to Glendale this year a total of fifty-two entertainers in a program suited to the diversity of tastes which the average American audience of today represents. The offering for Saturday will be an afternoon program by Alice Louise Shrode, the juvenile entertainer, in impersonations, dramatic readings and whistling numbers, followed by Evelyn McFarlane McClusky in a musical lecture demonstration. Mrs. McClusky has conducted more music memory contests than any person in the United States and has lectured will illustrate the talented musician and those whose souls perhaps are more musically inclined than their fingers.

Among the lectures for the week are Dr. Ng Poon Chew, the Chinese statesman, who lectures on "China and the Future Peace of the Pacific," on Saturday evening, and Tom Skellyhill, recently returned from a year in European countries, who has built from his observations on his journey a lecture called "The New Renaissance European Civilization," which forms the evening program on Monday.

Beatrice Stuart Waller gives a rapid-fire, thoroughly entertaining lecture while she demonstrates cartooning on Monday afternoon, and on Wednesday evening "Building Better Business by Building Better Men," James Heron has devoted the past few years to addressing Rotary Clubs and Chambers of Commerce throughout the country, and there will be much in his lecture to hold the attention of the wide awake business man.

BLUE TWILL COSTUMES New and extremely smart are costumes of blue twill, which consist of a frock with a long square collar attached to the shoulders. There are several different versions of this particular model and one is quite as attractive as another.

Golfers Keep in Practice at Sea On Speedy Munson Line Steamers.

Deck Golf on S.S. American Legion.

New York, In the days gone by, when grandpa and grandma and even father and mother, went to England or the Continent to make the "grand tour" they had to give up many comforts of home or hotel when on shipboard. They expected to be more or less uncomfortable in stuffy cabins and generally they were not disappointed. Amusement they did not look for, to any extent, especially along the line of sports, which in this day are so popular with both sexes.

Things have changed a great deal in recent days, however, and not only does the ocean traveler expect, and get more than the highest grade of hotel service while at sea, but on many vessels, such as the big steamers of the Munson Line, running from New York to South American ports, there is practically no popular sport that he or she may not indulge in.

With the great popularity of many outdoor sports there have come many innovations aboard ship, in order that tourists may not have to give up their favorite recreation for a minute. The golfer particularly is always desirous of keeping in form, and the real "golf bug" travels with his bag of clubs as a matter of course. To these passengers the Munson liners offer the opportunity of practicing while at sea, through the use of an ingenious device on deck.

Through the use of this clever invention the golfers are able to keep in perfect trim for games once they get ashore again. While the steamships are in warm southern waters the instrument is in continuous use by passengers desiring to either improve their stroke or determining the distance to which they can drive.

The machine consists of a registering dial and spring, so arranged that when a golf ball, connected with it by a long cord, is hit, that the distance the ball would have traveled, if free, and the weight behind the stroke are registered.

Not only do passengers practice with this deck golf outfit, but arrange matches, agreeing that certain distances exist between holes on an imaginary green, and that the winner is the one who is able to go around the "course" as shown by the dial, in the fewest number of strokes.

Competition in these "matches" is keen, indeed, and large "galleries" at times spend hours watching the enthusiasts play.

But golf is not the only amusement aboard the speedy Munson liners, which are carrying a record number of tourists this season to Rio de Janeiro and Buenos Aires. The steamers all carry splendid orchestras and dancing on deck lures both young and old afternoon and evening. Swimmers enjoy all the pleasure of a plunge into the ocean on warm, clear days in huge canvas tanks which are erected on deck and filled with sea water, and it is here that many "golfers" hurry for a dip after a day on the links.

WHY ACCIDENTS INCREASE

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc. (Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

Year by year the accident rate rises, especially the rate of automobile accidents. In 1921, according to census bureau statistics, 10,168 persons were killed by automobiles in the death registration area of the United States. This was at a rate of 11.5 per 100,000 population, an increase of 1.1 over the rate for 1920.

The 1920 rate, for its part, was an increase over the 1919 rate. And when the figures for 1922 are compiled, you may be sure they will show a higher automobile accident rate than that of 1921.

How account for this? Still more important, how effect a lowering of the rate?

One way, obviously, would be to put a check on the manufacture, sale and use of automobiles. That hardly seems practicable. Though, to be sure, seriously restrictive laws may be enacted if no other way is found to lessen the slaughter wrought by automobiles.

And, even then, unless automobiles were completely banned, a deplorably high accident rate might persist. Certainly it would persist in the absence of systematic educational effort to make people more thoughtful and careful than they now are.

Thoughtlessness and carelessness are, indeed, the chief factors in causing the automobile accident rate to rise as it has steadily been doing. It is not merely the numerical increase in automobiles that is to blame. It is that this increase makes more necessary the exercise of thought and caution, and this need is not met.

Automobilists—and pedestrians, too—often traverse the streets in a singularly absent-minded way. One might almost say that they go about like people in a trance. At all events, they neither keep their eyes really open nor their minds vigorously alert.

And, it might be added, this failure to observe and to think enters as the principal casual agent in accidents generally. As one close student of industrial accidents has put it, "mind as affected by some abatement or perversion of its powers" plays a leading part in the sad accident toll of our factories, mills, mines and stores.

So prevalent is thinking-failure that one is tempted to say that most persons most of the time are in a state of dreaming-awake. Ideas flit through their minds in the haphazard, unguided way of dream images. In many cases this remains true even when they are supposedly concentrating attention on something they are doing.

Such absence of idea control and idea selection is usually the result of one thing—imperfect training in early life. If children were schooled really to think we should have both fewer failures in the world of adult effort and fewer lives needlessly cut short by accidents.

Always education for real thinking has been a human necessity. In these days of increasing hazards to life and limb it is more of a necessity than ever. And until this is fully appreciated in the home and in the school, all other measures looking to accident prevention will avail comparatively little.

WOMAN PROPHET ARRESTED

(By Associated Press)

BELLEVILLE, N.Y., May 10.—The latest "dream preacher," one Maria Akerblom, has been arrested in Finland. The woman caused such a furor among the working classes that the authorities felt forced to take action.

Going from place to place on horseback, with flowing hair, Maria foretold the immediate end of the world. She declared that in view of this to own a house or land, to save money or do any kind of work, was useless. As a result of her preaching all of her large following of peasants, it is said, have been economically ruined.

A certain woman is blessed to an unusual degree with both discrimination and tact. The first of these admirable qualities she has displayed by her two marriages. Her first husband was a minister, a most delightful man. He died, and after a lapse of some years, she married his only brother, a successful lawyer.

Now on her library desk stands a picture of the first partner of her joys and sorrows and one day a curious caller asked who it was. "That," said the hostess, with evident emotion, "is a picture of my husband's brother, who died some years ago and who was very dear to us both!"

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK AND ITS ENVIRONS

MICHIGAN DAYS RECALLED BY MRS. HUMPHREY

Childhood Acquaintance
Visits at Home of Librarian

If everyone born in Burbank would come back to a grand reunion, how many people would there be here. That is a project that has been put on in other states during "Homecoming week," to the enjoyment of everyone.

Almont, Michigan, had such an affair 13 years ago, said Mrs. Minnie Humphrey, librarian. The pleasure of that reunion was recalled this week when Mrs. Blanche Sullivan of Vancouver, Washington, stopped in Burbank to visit Mrs. Humphrey.

Mrs. Sullivan and Mrs. Humphrey were born in Almont, Michigan, and went to school together. After they grew older and went to other cities they lost track of each other until 13 years ago, when Almont natives were invited to be present at the homecoming. From all parts of the United States, girls and boys and men and women responded to the call and traveled thousands of miles to renew old acquaintances.

That was the last time that Mrs. Humphrey saw Mrs. Sullivan until Tuesday when the Washington lady stopped at the office of the city clerk and asked her way to the Humphrey home at 339 Magnolia avenue.

GHOST CAMPS FILM SCENES

[By Associated Press]
ANCHORAGE, Alaska, May 10.—Ghost camps of Alaska will play an important part in motion picture making. Scenes made historical in the gold rush days will be revived by actual reproductions such as the placer operations at Girdwood, one of the oldest camps in southwestern Alaska.

Once a thriving camp, with dance halls, saloons and every accessory to hectic indulgence, Girdwood will emerge from its bed of dank vegetation and again blaze in prodigious glory. Many of the men who packed their blankets over the Portage bay divide, or braved the treacherous bore of Turnagain Arm will participate in the re-enactment. At present the population of Girdwood includes Joe Reno and his nine children, and a handful of prospectors.

BOND BUYING IS TOPIC OF ROTARY LUNCHEON TALK

At the Rotary luncheon at the Goodfellows club this week the speakers of the day told of money problems. Mr. Anderson of Los Angeles spoke of the income tax. Mr. Mitchell of the California Security company of Los Angeles gave some advice on the subject of bond buying. Both Mr. Anderson and Mr. Mitchell were guests of Mr. W. J. Riley of the State Bank of Burbank.

President Karr of the Glendale Rotary club was an out of town guest.

CITY REPORTS SHOW PROGRESS OF BURBANK

The police report submitted to the city council for the month of April showed 244 arrests, 219 of these being of traffic violators. Two were arrested for auto thefts and one in a bad check case.

The month of April, 1922 and the month of April, 1923 were compared, showing that the fines collected this month were $1600 while in 1922, fines turned in amounted to $610.50. The expenses for this month were $924, while in 1922 they were $708.

Because of the large volume of fines coming into the office daily, it has been suggested to the city council that W. A. Smith, who has been auditing the books for the city the past few months, be appointed to have charge of the books.

The public service department showed in the monthly report for April that 41 electric meters had been installed, and 43 water meters had been put in. Twenty-three new poles for light wires were put up and 13,000 feet of wire strung. Forty thousand feet of water piping had been laid.

Ordinances for the lowering of light and water rates were read at the Tuesday council meeting for the second time.

Claude Fisher was awarded the contract for the laying of the water mains on Magnolia avenue.

Asphalt pavement will be used for the connection of the pavement between the city and the Ben Mar tract pavement on San Fernando boulevard.

An irresistible impulse is one we yearn to follow.

BUILDING INSPECTOR ISSUES THREE PERMITS

Three building permits issued Wednesday by the Burbank building inspector, Elmer Dale, totaled $8500. They were taken out by:

Edwards & Wilsey for store and garage on West San Fernando Blvd. $8000
M. S. Brown, garage, 612 N. Cypress 175
James C. Conner, Peyton court 400
Total $8500

OLD, OLD SWINDLE

FRESNO, Calif., May 10.—(United Press). The old, old game, the "box swindle" was pulled here recently and netted the confidence men $4000. Clements-Larra, 65, was the victim. The bunch men told Larra they were distributing $100,000 to churches and the poor. If he would put up $4000 as security they said they would give him $40,000 to distribute. All the money, or Larra thought all, was put in a tin box. He had seen four thick rolls of money—wads of paper with $1 bills around them, it developed when the box was pried open at the bank of Italy. Larra's roll of $4000 was gone.

KLINES TO GO ON NORTHERN TRIP

A trip to Alaska is one of the joys that Mr. Charles Kline and son, Oliver, are planning. Details of the journey told envious friends help to reduce their temperatures. Mrs. Kline expects to accompany them as far as British Columbia but she does not desire the boat ride up to Alaska.

The trip to the cold north is only half of the travels the Kline family plan for the summer. Next month they will start to Honolulu.

Some preachers shout the glad tidings as though they were a death warrant.

SEND SUGGESTION FOR BURBANK EMBLEM

With Burbank developing as rapidly as it does a city flag with a city flower has been suggested as something that would help in building up civic pride and loyalty. A city flag which could be used on every occasion, such as the Choral club's program Sunday, any meeting or occasion, where the country's flag is used, would be a fine thing, according to many Burbank people.

If the Realty board, the Chamber of Commerce, the City Planning Commission, and the city clubs would all unite on one specific design or offer a prize for the best design submitted by an art student for such a flag it would not take long to have one made.

It is thought the needle work section of the Woman's club would be glad to make the first city flag after the design has been decided upon. Then on gala days the flag of the United States, the flag of California and the flag of Burbank could all float together on the breeze.

The flower could be either emblematic or one that suggests Burbank, such as a daisy or golden glow. The Daily Press will be glad to print your choice of flower and reasons for selection. All letters should be addressed "City Flag Desk," 134 E. San Fernando boulevard, Burbank.

CHURCHES WILL PLAN FOR DAILY SUMMER SCHOOL

Church people in Burbank were disappointed that the bill providing for the daily instruction of school children in Bible knowledge failed to pass the second reading. However, they declare that this failure will be an incentive to work harder for its passage next time, although the delay of time is costly to the future of the United States, they assert.

The fact that only 12 voted for the bill, shows the people that they will have to educate the lawmakers as to the value and the need of such instruction. Added impetus will be given to the Daily Bible vacation school because of the failure of the bill to pass the assembly.

CIVIC PROBLEMS LEFT UNSOLVED BECAUSE OF HEAT

Was it the heat or lack of civic problems to be solved that is to account for the non attendance of the city planning commission at the city hall Wednesday afternoon? Mr. Kline, Mr. White, Mr. Newcomer and Mrs. Hathorn were among those present. The others, where were they?

The afternoon was hot and the city council chamber was even hotter. No doubt it was thought that the problems of the city beautiful could afford to cool off.

MORE THAN FIFTY ARE CAUGHT SPEEDING

Motorists who apparently have not yet learned the value of life and what it would mean to a family to have a relative knocked over and killed by a speeder, appeared before Judge Crawford to pay their fines and go their way, remembering that Burbank is one place where they cannot violate traffic laws.

More than 50 stood before the railing in the hot courtroom and admitted their guilt. One man from Big Rock Inn, a sanitarium 90 miles away felt that he had made a heavy penalty in driving in the heat 90 miles to be present to explain to the court that he had an excuse.

The majority of speeders had no excuse and so the fines collected for the week amounted to nearly $150 although the individual fines were usually from $5 to $10.

Los Angeles, Pomona, San Fernando, Hollywood and Lankershim citizens all contributed to the city through their violation of the speed laws of the town.

Truths in Epigram

Use every man after his desert, and who shall scape whipping?—Shakespeare.

PERVERSION OF HISTORY

If the Sons of the American Revolution, and members of kindred orders, accepted American history as now taught by some textbooks, they would disband in humiliation. They might be inspired to trace themselves back to the Tories of that period, or even to the Hessians but, as a matter of self respect, they would cease to claim relationship with the men, of whom, with conscious pride, they proclaim themselves descendants. But they do not accept this type of American history. They know it to be spurious, and that it is the duty of American citizens to reject it, and to expose it.

These versions, or perversions, of history, represent Washington, Hamilton, Adams and others more as adventurers than as warriors or statesmen. They imply that they were rebels not from principle, but either from quest of venture or disappointed ambition, their proffers of service to the king having been rejected. Clearly enough, this is libelous on the part of the so-called historians. At the same time the bravery and patriotism of the revolutionary army is admitted only sufficiently to be scorned. Great events of the war are dismissed with a line, often the brevity conveying contempt. The whole purpose of the writers seems to have been to deny to American students the right of becoming aware of the facts attending the start and development of the United States. The greatest men and the greatest deeds of the revolution are dismissed with a flout and a sneer. There even is the intimation that the whole revolutionary process was a stupid error, and that this country was wrong in not remaining a British colony.

That such textbooks should be eliminated from the schools, that the authors of them, and the sponsors for them, deserve to be condemned, are propositions that do not admit of debate. The specific object of the false teaching is difficult to discern. If the intention was to please the British, it fails utterly. The British are good sports. They were defeated in the Revolution, and after; they know it, admit it and do not resent it. The countries are friendly despite the fights of many years ago. Most Englishmen are ready to concede now that the United States was right. Had they themselves been early colonists they would have been found with the army of Washington. The sinister motive that actuated the "historians" in preparing fiction in the form of a textbook of fact, is obscure. It is enough—and too much—to know that they have done this. The simple duty of patriotism is to undo the mischief speedily.

THE HERRIN DISGRACE

According to The Nation, one of the radical publications barred from California schools, the trials at Herrin, instead of being judicial proceedings, were a duel between the Manufacturers' association "working through the machinery of the state" and the United Mine Workers.

The truth of the allegation will have to be admitted in part. There was a bitter contest between the two organizations. Doubtless it was marked by wrongs on both sides. That either party had the privilege of using the machinery of the state to forward its ends, cannot be true. It cannot be true, because the murderers went on trial in due form. There was an earnest effort to convict them. The fact of their guilt was made plain, and yet in the face of all the evidence, they were acquitted. The machinery was not functioning in behalf of either side, but in behalf of justice. It broke down miserably. It was broken down by the adherents of the miners. The sorry triumph was not over the employers, but over the law, over respect for law; over the possibility of punishing murder, most foul and wanton.

When crime has been committed it is viewed as aimed at the people. So the indictment states. Whatever the specific incentive or pretext, the people are concerned. It becomes the affair of all of them, and not of any clique. If the clique prove stronger than the public, able to do outrageous things and to defy the courts, the outcome is disgraceful. The affront is to the whole people, the social structure, and the disgrace rests upon an entire commonwealth.

FLORIDA'S DISGRACE

Somebody has sent to this office a copy of the Florida Times-Union, printed at Jacksonville. Over an account in that paper of the efforts to punish the men responsible for flogging a prisoner to death, is written "And they still call this America."

It is to be said to the credit of the paper quoted that it is doing all in its power to bring the miscreants to justice. It is not trying to conceal the truth. On the contrary, it points to the truth, strives to fix the blame, and to have the disgrace that now rests upon the fair name of the state, effaced so far as this is possible.

Unfortunately social outrages do occur in this country. Florida just now is receiving publicity for one of these. A few weeks ago it was Illinois, in which wholesale murders were perpetrated, the guilty were known, and yet the law was helpless to penalize. In Louisiana there have been evil and violent deeds, ascribed to the ku klux. Whether members of this organization are unjustly accused, the fact is plain that some organization of cowardly assassins committed wanton butchery. Strange as it may seem, the sympathy of the community rests with the criminals. There is no probability that they will be punished.

In many parts of the country outbreaks of lynch law are common. "And they still call this America." But these sporadic manifestations do not show the American spirit. They are in direct opposition to it. This is proven by the reaction of the country at large. The people, considered as a whole, are horrified at the exhibitions of individual and group depravity. The sentiment expressed by them is the real sentiment of the land. There is no reason to despair, for at heart the great majority is sound, and in the end the decency that it upholds will prevail.

It is seldom that a single automobile accident results in killing six persons. This was the record of a recent grade crossing accident near Fresno. The type of disaster comes under the head of avoidable. No reason could be found for driving a machine on the track just in front of a rushing train. A reasonable amount of caution would be a sure preventive. If there is neither watchman nor signal the plain duty of the driver is to ascertain whether the passage is safely clear. It is appalling to read, through the mortuary records, how often this plain duty is neglected.

PICKING ON THE WOMEN

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Charles G. Norris, husband of Kathleen, has been interviewing himself in New York. That in itself is harmless enough, but the stuff that man spilled in the interview is enough to make one groan.

First, he wants girls under 30 excluded from the business world. This, it seems, is because the labor market is oversupplied with young girls and their average pay is something between $500 and $600 a year, while men for similar work receive an average of $1000.

Mr. Norris adds that in addition to the oversupply of women those who work are handicapped by their sex.

Well, well, they are handicapped by their sex, and so we smile with supreme complacency and still further handicap them by inadequate wages. The "remedy" is excluding them from the business world until they are 30. How will they live? By their sex or by charity? Most women are in the business world because nature inconsiderately decreed that they must eat. We can't embalm them for three decades and still have them last to beget work at 30.

Mr. Norris' next burst of wisdom is contained in the quotation which follows: "If any other girl"—meaning one who does not have to be self-supporting—"enters the business world she should be good sport enough to forego renounce and thwart her desires for home and motherhood and enter it as wholeheartedly as a man does his business career."

Well, since when did the entry into the business world carry with it for men such renunciation as Mr. Norris would force on women? The cruelty of it. Granting that a woman does not have to be self-supporting, must she therefore sit in her father's house or the house of some relative and atrophy mentally while waiting for some hero—which there ain't no such animal—to come along and marry her?

Now, oversupply is not responsible for the low wages paid women. Nothing is responsible for that but tyranny and a feeling inculcated through the ages that women are inferior and must, as inferiors, be kept poor and consequently duly humble. Pay women adequately and a process of elimination will follow that will speedily remove the unfit. The unfit survive only because they can be secured for starvation wages.

But here is the supreme gem of the Norris interview: "Women are handicapped by their sex. A man does not like to have a woman superior tell him what to do any more than a woman likes to tell him what to do."

Whew. Handicapped by sex—handicapped by arrogance and prejudice rather. In that utterance Mr. Norris was encouraging men to demand sex privileges because they find them pleasant. If a woman is capable of holding a superior position there is no reason why any man should resent being told by her what to do. The only way he can resent it is by considering that position belongs inherently to maleness rather than to ability.

And that is archaic and rotten. There are thousands of women who believe that he ought by now to be advanced to a point that should lift him to a better understanding of right and justice than he has shown in his New York talk.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

DIFFICULT PROBLEM DISCUSSED

(Find the error in this article.) There is no construction more puzzling than the one submitted here by Miss Adele Raynor.

The correspondent writes that "a discussion has arisen between a friend and me and in order to settle it I am writing you for advice on the same." "Kindly correct the following sentence," continues Miss Raynor, "and advise me why you use who or whom, as the case may be. Also, is there any rule to go by as to when to use who or whom?"

The sentence alluded to is as follows: "We are in receipt of your letter of recent date and in reply wish to advise that we have referred same to our representative who (or whom?) we have requested to communicate with you and adjust the matter to your satisfaction."

The "Right Word" will publish the correct answer to this query tomorrow. In the meantime, Miss Raynor together with other readers of this column are challenged to determine the right answers to the following questions: first, is who or whom the right word? Secondly, How do you substantiate your decision?

One should avoid the use of the word same, as used twice by Miss Raynor. Compare the following sentence with the one submitted: Replying to your letter of May 9, we wish to advise you that we have referred your complaint to our representative, who (or whom?) we have requested to communicate with you and adjust the matter to your satisfaction.

Wrong: . . . there is no doubt but that we could have been prepared. Right: . . . there is no doubt that we could have been prepared.

Vocabulary If you are perturbed, you are thoroughly disgusted; greatly disturbed, agitated, confused. Perturbable is an adjective; perturbation is a noun; perturbably is an adverb. Study the following words: perturbless, imperturbable, perturbatory.

Queries "Rural," Louisville, Ky. . . . There was no doubt but that every one on board was drowned. The word but in the foregoing sentence carries me back to the day when my teacher made me go foot for not omitting it from the same type of sentence. Did he do me an injustice?

Answer: "Doubt but that" was planted as a deliberate error in the column one day, and corrected on the next day to "doubt that," under "Yesterday's Error."

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

There is Fretter. Fretter is a man pretty well informed. He reads the newspapers. Even the Sunday supplements.

And reads perhaps many things that put him in the very upper reaches of knowledge.

Fretter is worried about a lot of things. He read somewhere that the coal supply of the world will last only a few hundred thousand years.

And it gives him a shock. What will people do a few hundred thousand years from now for coal? Hard to say.

At present there seems to be plenty of coal, although it is hard to get sometimes. And Fretter does not worry so much about that.

It is the future he is concerned about. Think of millions of people shivering to death without coal a few hundred thousand years from now.

Mrs. Fretter is a bit more practical. She is more concerned about the lack of coal in the cellar right now. She believes the people of a couple of hundred thousand years from now will have to learn to care for themselves.

So she urges Fretter to fill the cellar with coal. For the Fretters live where they have winters. Long and severe.

Then Fretter is concerned about the food of the future. The nitrogens may all be exhausted. The supply in earth may be used up and the air may be made to give up its surplus.

Then there is the matter of the sun growing colder, so Fretter has read. Some day in the far future the heat of the sun will grow distinctly less.

And this universe of ours will grow colder and colder. The earth will have a coating of ice. And eventually life will be extinguished. Even the Esquimaux will freeze to death.

There is a lot to do today. Civic jobs and health matters and child welfare and all that to look after, but Fretter does not warm up to that. But the Sunday supplements frighten him. And those poor people of a million years from now.

No coal, no food, and a sun gone out. Horrible!

Songs of the Poets

The Useful Plow—Author Unknown.

A country life is sweet!
In moderate cold or heat;

To walk in the air how pleasant and fair!
In every field of wheat,

The fairest of flowers adorning the bowers,
And every meadow's brow;

So that I say, no courtier may
Compare with them who clothe in gray

And follow the useful plow.

They rise with the morning lark,
And labor till almost dark,

Then, folding their sheep, they hasten to sleep

While every pleasant ring
Next morning is ringing with birds that are singing

On each green, tender bough.
With what content and merriment

Their days are spent whose minds are bent
To follow the useful plow.

OUTLAWING WAR

By DR. FRANK CRANE

SENATOR BORAH is out in another phrase and is now in favor of "outlawing war."

There are no real advocates of war; that is, very few of them care to express this in the public prints. War is so utterly illogical and so wholly foolish that no sane man can advocate it.

But, while we cannot advocate war, we can do the next worst thing, which is to refuse to see the only way that war can possibly be stopped.

That way is by such an association of the nations of the earth, all of them, that international questions shall be settled by an international court, backed up by an international police.

We can wrangle and squabble and argue, but we can never get away from that point.

An international court, as anybody can see, will be useless unless there is an international policeman behind it with a club.

No authority is of any value unless there is an acting force behind it.

Justice Clark, who recently resigned from the United States Supreme Court to devote himself to the League of Nations, states the case clearly:

"War cannot be abolished by legislative or judicial fiat. It cannot be eliminated by good intention or pious wishes. To make effective a decree of outlawry against war, there must be available an actual power superior in strength to any nation or coalition of nations which might decide to defy it."

This is simply plain, unescapable, common sense logic.

Any man who says that he is opposed to war and yet, is doing his best to oppose the only movement that can possibly stop war is, to speak as politely as the occasion warrants, ignorant.

And by the little, with the inevitable force of sure-footed destiny, the simple truth is going to drive itself home to the consciousness of the people of this world that the only possible way out of a system that automatically produces war is to adopt a system that automatically avoids war.

An association of the nations of the world, by which their disputes shall be decided by a world court, and these decisions backed up by a predominant world army, is bound to come, not because we want it, or pray for it, or argue about it, but simply because it is the inevitable conclusion of evolution and the logic of events.

It will take some time for various individuals and parties and nations to get through with their sputtering, objecting, and the saving of their faces, but one comfort is that no man lives forever, and some time or another these people, at least, must pass on. And it is inconceivable that the next generation should re-engage in such worn-out fatuity.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

"GOOD-BY, JIM!"

[Philadelphia Public Ledger] Barrel-chested James J. Larkin, the hard-boiled Irish Red, departed these shores Saturday by urgent invitation. If Governor Smith of New York had not pardoned this stormy Irishman he still would be inside of Sing Sing looking out.

The state of New York had gathered him up and put him away where the dogs couldn't bite him on a charge of violating the state anarchy act. There was no particular joy manifested when Larkin was loosed, and the United States authorities straightway gathered him in again and marked him for export as an undesirable alien.

He came to the United States grumbling, snarling, growling and defiant. He left the same way. Before he went he had made us a good deal of trouble. There will be no widespread regret at his going. His kind represent the worst kind of an import and the best sort of an export.

"Good-by, Jim; take 'keer o' yourself!" sang one of James Whitcomb Riley's Hoosier folk. Larkin is hardly the Riley kind of a "Jim." As we sing "Good-by, Jim," to Mr. Larkin we hope it will be a long farewell; and it is a matter of profound indifference whether he takes "keer" of himself or not.

OBSERVED AT A GLANCE

By HENRY JAMES

When aviators start from New York with hot coffee and arrive at San Diego with the beverage still hot, they surely have not been loitering by the way.

Northern assemblymen calmly repudiate the part of the state constitution that fails to suit them. Maybe they haven't read the document.

Ku klux presented money to a church back east, and the pastor lauded the organization. Some people are for sale cheap.

Authorities are puzzled as to identity of a woman wanted for murder. Her lawyer knows all about it. Better ask him.

A movie actress has just taken her fifth husband, who is being congratulated, probably on his nerve.

The Sioux Indians want to get back some of the property the government took from them. Their cause is just, but probably hopeless.

Chinese bandits work in squads of 1000, which lifts their activities almost to the plane of military respectability.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

It is interesting to note that the Sioux Indians have brought suit against the government. Perhaps it does not show progress on their part so much, as that they have been listening to shrewd lawyers. Still, it indicates a realization that they have been wronged.

There is no apparent likelihood that the action will greatly enrich the Sioux. However, if it shall have the effect of making people understand how shameful has been the treatment of the Indians by the whites, perhaps there may be a change in methods before the red man has vanished.

The treatment of the Indians, from the time when first they were swindled by the unctuous Penn., to the present, constitutes a chapter of American history in which it is impossible to take pride. From the first the control of the Indians has been a scheme of robbery. If they had anything that the whites desired, the whites simply took it, and the incident was regarded as closed.

Probably with decent treatment the natives of this continent as they were when first discovered, would have been kept in the friendly mood in which they greeted their strange visitors. Farther south the Spanish invaders broke faith with the natives, stole from them and killed them, establishing a hatred that abides to this day. The northern Indians were of different type. They were guilty of occasional cruel and seemingly unprovoked onslaughts; but they had memories, and they knew how their forebears had been treated.

The American Indian deserves to be fairly dealt with now. This means that he should be made a citizen with full rights, and no longer kept as a ward to be exploited for the benefit of his guardian.

That hope springs eternal in the human breast, as the poet said, was never made more clearly manifest than by the film actor who has just become No. 5 to a film actress.

This is assuming, of course, that he believes there will be no No. 6. Members of a ku klux clan seem likely, in any community in which they are tolerated, to walk, hooded and sheeted into a church, and hand the pastor a compliment and a monetary donation.

The proper course in such cases would be to give the invaders "the bum's rush" toss their bribe after them, and resume worship. But it doesn't seem to be done.

Hazing as practiced at Northwestern university in the past seems to be taking on the color of tragedy. When the skeleton of a student who had been missing for two years was found, with evidence that his vanishing had been due to murder, it was impossible to believe that any body of students could have been guilty of such crime. The natural theory was that the student had been a suicide. Even this course on his part, since he had been known as a victim of hazing, would not have given his tormentors any clean bill of moral health.

There have been many efforts to eliminate hazing. The experiment of sending a few hazers to the penitentiary, or subjecting them to even more drastic treatment, might be effective. At least it would be worth trying.

Los Angeles youths kidnapped a school girl, who several days later was recovered, after having been subjected to hideous mistreatment. The offenders are in jail. They never should be permitted to get out.

Railroad travel in China seems to present at least one peril that does not attend it elsewhere. Bandits there, said to be a thousand in number, captured 150 passengers.

One continuous newspaper outrage is the cartoon portraying "Uncle Sam" as a clown and a booby, appearing regularly in the Hearst string. The contempt it conveys for the government becomes a tiresome exhibit.

A man explains, as he assists in moving the body of his murdered "sweetheart" that he shot her because he loved her. Now watch the sob sisters get to work burnishing a halo for a man who ought to be hanged as soon as the formality of trial can be rushed through.

Whether Ford or Rockefeller is the richer may be interesting to speculate about, but it doesn't make any difference what's the answer. Both men will vanish in due season, each leaving his accumulation, and this money will be doing service somewhere.

Recognition for Mexico seems to be nearing. At least the public is getting so interested that if there is good reason for withholding recognition they will find what it is.

Several persons are being held on suspicion of kidnapping a boy back east for ransom. If they are guilty they should continue to be held for the period of their unnatural lives.

Anonymous letters threatening death to police officials give the latter an additional excuse for activity, with quickness of trigger finger. A poor way to discourage the average policeman is to threaten him. Such an experience puts him on his mettle.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Last night we went to Gus's house for dinner. Arrived a bit early, as we should, for we have been friends of the Guses for years, and years. The Gus hopeful blew in shortly before dinner with the finest shiner I have ever seen. His left eye was not merely black. It was green and yellow and purple. The swelling began at the crown of his head and ran to his jaw.

"Come over here, son," said Gus, "and tell me about it." So the boy told the story. It was an ordinary enough tale of school-boy life, in which it was evident that the other fellow gave the provocation and, in spite of the evidence of the hopeful's shiner, got the licking. The other fellow gleamed with happiness as he told of his triumph. Gus is a good cross-examiner, and he got the full truth before he was through.

"All right," he said, then. "Here is your $2.00. He manages his young son on a new and original theory. Gus believes that the cruelest thing any parent can do to a son is to repress the fighting instinct in him. When he was a kid he was licked every time he had a fight, whether he won or lost, and whether he had been right or wrong. It made a liar out of him, he says, and fed him to revolt against a father who could be so grossly unfair, and gave him a good start on what we would call nowadays an "inferiority complex." He refused to fight, because of his fear of the home licking, so often that he began to feel himself a coward. Often he was compelled to fight merely to prove he was not.

"I'm bringing my kid up differently," he said. "He knows that I investigate any story he tells me. Heaven help him if he lies to me. If he was not to blame for starting the fight he gets two dollars if his eye is blacked."

"And not otherwise," said Gus.

FULTON LOST, BUT WON MORAL VICTORY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, May 10.—One of those queer twists of fate or a break in luck, if it might be considered as such, enabled Fred Fulton to redeem himself just as he was about to pass down on the books with the most uncomplimentary epitaph in sports—"a diver."

The strange parlance of the boxing ring has applied to a fighter who quits under punishment the title of "a dog," "a diver," or "a tanker." Fulton had come into the possession of all of them. He was regarded as being yellow, a faint-hearted giant, who always "looked for the hammock" when he was hurt.

Because he was never popular personally and because he pleaded a fake fight after he was knocked out by one of Jack Dempsey's knockouts, Fulton came into possession of all the inglorious titles of the ring and he didn't exactly deserve them.

Fulton had been knocked out only by Al Palzer, Dempsey, Harry Wills and Billy Mische. Three of them are about the best heavyweights in the country, but because he went down so quickly it was thought that he was willing to get it over with as soon as possible and he was judged accordingly.

As a rule, a "diver" has little trouble in getting matches. Some of them make good money by being used as trial horses for young heavyweights of stouter hearts and heavier punches, but Fulton couldn't get matches. They were all afraid of him, because he was known as a most dangerous fighter when he got out ahead and he had a murderous punch when he wasn't being punished.

Fulton had no chance to vindicate himself. He showed symptoms of courage when he signed to meet Harry Wills when every heavyweight in the class, including the champion, was giving the big colored fighter the wide berth. Fulton had the chance then to show that he was not a "diver," but the conviction against him became all the more fixed when he lost with a quick knockout.

The Minnesota plasterer was just about to give up his career and go down on the books with his blotted record, when young Floyd Johnson came along. Johnson is the most unusual fighter of a decade and he has the most extraordinary manager in the business. Hardly more than a novice, with nothing but a super-confidence in himself, Johnson set out working up to a bout with Dempsey by offering to fight any heavyweight in the class. He promised to beat Bill Brennan, Jess Willard, Tom Gibbons and Harry Wills all in a row, before he asked for a championship bout, and he set about doing it.

Johnson's manager does not believe in gymnasiums. He has the sound but dangerous theory that one has to fight dogs more to bring out a fighter than a thousand workouts with sparring partners. Seeking a fight to get his charge in shape for Willard, the manager signed with Fred Fulton. They all said he was crazy. They pointed out that Johnson was in grave danger of being knocked out and that if he did stop Fulton, he would get nothing but the old song that Freddie hit the tank.

It was a break in luck for Fulton, as he couldn't get engagements and he made the most of it. He lost a newspaper decision to Johnson, but he won the moral victory.

EDITORIALS BY THE PEOPLE

The Editor,
The Glendale Press,
Glendale, California.

Dear Sir:

My attention has been called to an item in your issue of March 22, in which the Department of Commerce is blamed for the present price of sugar.

The old saying that "error travels faster and further than truth" has been most forcibly exemplified in the whole history of the facts surrounding the publication of this Department's regular semi-annual world sugar survey. This survey was issued by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce on February 9, and it estimated the available supplies of sugar for the year, including carry over and current production, at 19,511,000 tons, the consumption for the year at 19,035,000 tons, and indicated a surplus at the end of the year of 476,000 tons. One of the press associations, in sending out a wire dispatch covering the survey, apparently read no further than the technical statement of stocks in different countries, and gave the headline of sugar shortage. The mistake was frankly and publicly acknowledged by the press association. As soon as the matter came to the attention of the Department, Dr. Klein, director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, issued a further statement on February 12, to give prompt and public correction to the misimpression.

On February 26 Secretary Hoover wrote a letter to Senator Brookhart, which was published in the Congressional Record, and in which he again pointed out that the Department's survey indicated a world surplus of sugar of 476,000 tons. Again on March 22 Mr. Hoover made a public statement in which he quoted his letter to Senator Brookhart, and in which he made the further statement that

A bee and a grasshopper met in the grass. "Stand aside!" said the bee. "I am busy. Let me pass."

"Very true," said the grasshopper. "I do not deny you are busy, but you are no busier than I."

"Who are you?" said the bee, "thus to argue with me?"
For what is a grasshopper compared with a bee?"

"Perhaps," said the grasshopper, "I'm not as great as you, but I'm as Nature made me so what shall I do?"

"The farmers despise you and call you a pest," said the bee, "for you rob them of all that is best."

"Very true," said the grasshopper, "it may not be right, but who was it gave me this frightful appetite?"

"And who was it sent me to forage in the grain, to hop in the sunshine and hide in the rain?"

"You steal from the flowers that nod there in the dew and carry off your plunder and the farmer steals from you."

"And who made the honey bee among the flowers to roam, and who made the farmer to steal the honeycomb?"

"And why you despise me is more than I can see, when the Lord made the farmer and made you and me."

"And I am like you are—the world's in my debt, so I eat when I'm hungry and what I can get."

"And there isn't any difference at all I can see between the bee and the farmer and long-legged me."

SENATOR DUMM ON THE CHESTER CONCESSIONS

Idea Is to Split Turkey Up Into Rival Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs and Make It a Nation of Live-Wire Business Boosters, He Thinks—Suggests Babbitt for Sultan

Dear Dummer:

A few days ago you asked me to explain to you about this Admiral Chester deal with Turkey, and I am now glad to do so. Not so long ago the United States was denouncing Turkey as a bandit, assassin and all-round bad egg, but she is now considering going into partnership with her in the oil business. Uncle Sam used to call these people the Unspeakables, but that was before he discovered that the Turks spoke petroleum fluently, which is the international language.

The United States ain't officially Turkey's partner in the petroleum business, of course. A "group of Americans" are swinging the deal, and they are headed by a rear admiral named Chester Grant. He is wise enough to see that, with the aid of the war being scrapped, it is a smart idea for an admiral to go out and get in a good business for himself.

Personally, I think it a bad influence on the American navy to have an admiral as a petroleum magnate. The first thing you know our naval men may be flashing through messages like "We have met the enemy and his oil is ours!" and giving orders like "Don't give up the petroleum concessions, boys!" and "Damn the gushers, go ahead!"

It could easily reach a point where somebody would endow a chair in oil refining at Annapolis, and disappointed parents of naval academy graduates would be singing "I didn't raise my boy to be an oil can!"

One thing would lead to another and you'd have our admirals leading their ships in the midst of big sea fights to go into the coal, wood, iron, steel, leather, glucose and pickled products businesses.

Our secretary of war could never tell when he sent an admiral down to fight Mexico but what he'd land peacefully at Vera Cruz and decide to open a chain of United Cigar Stores or Childs lunch rooms instead.

As I understand it, the group of Americans will develop Turkey on cost plus basis. Modern American business ideas will be applied to the Turkish cigarette, rug and harem industries.

There will be "Boost Constantly-nople Weeks" every other month or so, of course.

I look to see American business men divide Turkey into Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and business buildings, associations and chambers of commerce inside the next few months. It will be a fine and noble thing to take an unspeakable Turk and make him a live wire and a go-getter.

I wouldn't be surprised to see Sinclair Lewis' man Babbitt nominated for sultan.

Turkey would have a much brighter future with a sultan who could write a good circular letter on the opportunities for oil well investors and put over a weekly drive for bigger and better massacres.

I hope I have made everything clear and that you are feeling oil right. Meanwhile remember the old adage, "Only to bed and only to rise, a Turk or a Yankee wealthy and wise."

Love to all,

NEVADA MARKETS

TO BE IMPROVED

RENO, Nev., May 9.—Modern marketing methods employed in eastern states, together with the policies and recommendations of the bureau of markets and the bureau of standards of the United States government, are being studied preparatory to putting into effect the new state agricultural grading and standardization law, passed by the last legislature. Prof. S. C. Dinsmore, state commissioner of foods, drugs, weights and measures, will attend a series of conferences to be held in Washington the latter part of May, with a view to adopting the most improved methods in this state.

Equipment has been ordered and as soon as it is received the department will put into effect the public weightmaster's act, which is intended to protect both shipper and dealer. The weight given in a public weightmaster's certificate must be accepted as correct. Permits will be issued for these officials upon application and upon their execution of a bond, and other compliance with the law.

Most people will do as you wish — if it is in accord with their wishes.

PLUMBING WORK PLACED ON HIGH EFFICIENCY

Another tribute to the initiative of California industry is seen in the many inquiries that have been received from all sections of the country regarding the successful educational campaign being conducted through the newspapers by the Sanitary Development League of Southern California to create higher standards of sanitation.

This campaign, launched by the plumbing industry a few months ago, has not only stimulated a demand for better plumbing materials and workmanship, but it has established the fact that the industry is performing a real service by safeguarding health.

Among the inquiries received by the league last week was a letter from the Georgia Trade Extension Bureau of the plumbing and heating industry of Georgia. John L. Leonard, secretary, wrote:

"The organization of which I am secretary is organized along similar lines and we are anticipating an advertising campaign in the near future. It has been reported to us that the advertising campaign conducted by the Sanitary Development League has been successful and I am anxious to harmonize the interests of the industry here so as to conduct a campaign along the same lines."

The plumbing industry of Oregon, of Northern California and of Washington are planning to follow the lead of Southern California in campaigns that will educate the public to the economy and other advantages that come through the use of the best in plumbing materials.

In the advertising of the Sanitary Development league it is pointed out that the selection of plumbing for homes, industrial plants and for all uses is of first importance because improper and inadequate sanitation results in most of the epidemics of disease, in increased expenditures for repairs and in other hardships. Attention is drawn to the fact that most of the materials used in plumbing are hidden behind walls and under floors and that therefore only concerns of the highest standing should be retained for the work.

Members of the Sanitary Development league, which is composed of the leading firms of Southern California, are pledged to maintain the highest ideals and standards of the industry and are therefore recommended to the public. They may be identified by the employ of the league.

TURLOCK, Calif. — (United Press).—Turlock's building permits —$57,420 for April—exceeded any month of this year. An addition to the high school, new homes and business house alterations made up the total.
